Lancaster University

Our design studios and surrounding environment will provide space to reflect, debate and create.

Lancaster University is one of the top universities in the UK. Building on our institutional reputation for

The BA (Hons) Architecture programme is comprised of four main components: Design Studio, Architectural Technology, Architectural Humanities and Professional Practice.

Your final year is designed to expand and stretch your critical thinking through practical project work at an advanced level. You will be asked to explore the future of architectural practice and to consider new ways of designing and living.

We will challenge you in this module! You will be asked to consider a site and a global problem and to come up with a solution. The problem is likely to be topical such as the climate emergency, work force automation, data security or the ageing population.

You will need to create a brief, present a feasibility study, and use your problem solving skills and strategies to implement a responsive urban and architectural solution. You will be using digital and analogue media, as well as physical modelling. The activity could include responding to a competition or call for tender, consultation with residents/users, as well as site visits where appropriate. You will need to assess feasibility, using your design skills and contextual knowledge, and consider a range of strategic, functional, legal, and social implications.
